Mambo Sprouts enhances online coupon tool for multi-brand natural and organic products

Collingswood, NJ (March 26, 2009) — Health-conscious consumers are looking for a way to save on their preferred natural and organic brands, and Mambo Sprouts is responding. Visitors to the Mambo Sprouts Marketing site (www.mambosprouts.com) can now print high value coupons for natural and organic products and receive notification when new coupons are posted.

The original online coupon section was so well received, the company decided to expand to make them more accessible. “Consumers picked up on our coupon pages and began using them almost immediately,” said Matthew Saline, CEO of Mambo Sprouts. “With such strong traffic patterns, it made sense to expand the site and increase functionality for our users.”

New features include coupon categories for easier browsing and recipes alongside many coupon promotions. Also new are social networking tools including an RSS feed and Facebook page. Likewise, consumers can receive alerts when new coupons are posted by following Mambo Sprouts on Twitter.

The new coupon section on the company’s website places Mambo Sprouts at the forefront as one of the first online resources to offer multiple brand coupons exclusively for natural and organic producers. Participating brands include Organic Valley, Method, Ethnic Gourmet and Odwalla, among other leading natural and organic producers.

Mambo Sprouts syndicated MamboTrack™ research shows that coupon use is up among natural and organic consumers. In a 2009 Outlook Survey, consumers requested more coupons to help them maintain their organic purchasing habits.

“Our research shows that consumers are still committed to buying healthy, natural products, but they’re looking for manufacturers and retailers to make that decision easier,” said Saline.
